Good News: Improved Bumpers for '73 Autos

Because of improved bumpers ordered by the federal government 1973 model automobiles will earn for their owners a 10 per cent reduction in collision insurance premiums, the Insurance Services Office in New York City has announced.

ISO President Richard R. Savage estimated the premium cut will save consumers 20 million dollars annually.

The ISO press release continues:

"The federal government requires that front bumpers of all 1973 cars, both foreign and domestic, be able to withstand a crash into a fixed barrier at five miles an hour and that rear bumpers be able to withstand a two-and-one-half mile per hour impact without damage to safety related equipment such as headlights, fuel and cooling systems and hood, trunk and door latches.

"If the improved bumpers show that losses are reduced by more than 10 per cent," Mr. Savage stated, "even further savings will be passed on to the motorist."

"In view of the damage that presumably will be prevented by the stronger bumpers, ISO noted, there is expected to be substantial additional savings for motorists who now have a deductible on their collision insurance and who thus have to pay out of their own pockets the first $50, $100, or $250 of any damage to their automobiles.

"ISO first offered a 10 per cent discount to 1972 cars which met the 1973 federal bumper standards. Only three automobile manufacturers certified some 1972 models as qualifying for the discount—SAAB, MG and Mercedes-Benz."

Automobile bumpers have been a sore subject with your editor for more than 20 years, as Star readers know. Back in 1940-model days I had a car with big steel bumpers fore and aft and never had a trim repair job in the 10 years of ownership. But when I came to trade in 1960 I encountered the new fashion of wrap-around bumpers—decorative but offering no protection to either fender trim or car body.

Americans have had wrap-around bumpers for 22 years and I'd say we are completely fed up. No matter what the make of car the bumpers are lousy. Europeans have more sense than Americans when it comes to bumpers.

I'm still mad about what happened to me in the tight parking space behind The Star Building. I was jockeying back and forth three feet at a time to get the car in the clear when I accidentally touched the building's wall. A mere touch, no jolt—but the tin bumper transmitted the shock to a rear fender, and the repair cost was $181.

Some patriotic citizen ought to run an advertisement in the Detroit newspapers reading like this:

"Wanted: An American car with European bumpers."

The word is we'll get this combination in the 1973 models plus a 10 per cent cut in collision insurance premiums.

As for this confirmed doubter, I'll wait and see.

Like everything else done in a hurry Tuesday's column stands corrected on two counts:

The name of the chairman of the Democratic National Committee is LAWRENCE O'Brien—not Lincoln O'Brien as published.

The word "parley," meaning a conference, should have been spelled "parlay," meaning running up a racing bet, which was the intended meaning Tuesday.

Today's editorial was originally in the pastep of Page One for Tuesday. But at noon Tuesday I made a switch and wrote a short piece on the convention. Errors pop up when you do things in a hurry; but the switch was justified—for a little after 1 p.m. Tuesday Humphrey and Muskie withdrew.

Wallace claims moment of drama

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — George C. Wallace's campaign manager said today the chance that the Alabama governor will make another third-party presidential race "seems to be getting stronger and stronger every minute."

Charles S. Snider told newsmen a final decision will be made soon after the Democratic National Convention.

Meanwhile he said the Alabama governor's name will be put up for the Democratic presidential nomination tonight as planned even though he said "we're not accepting the fact" that Sen. George McGovern will win the nomination.

Snider's statement came a few hours after Wallace appeared before the convention in a dramatic moment Tuesday night.

Accorded a long-awaited Democratic National Convention appearance to argue his platform views, Wallace was greeted by a lusty ovation and heard in an aura of good behavior.

"I am here," said the man who bolted the Democrats in 1968, "because I want to help."

"I want it to become again the party of the average citizen as it used to be and not the party of the pseudo-intellectual snobbery that it has come to be."

But while his familiar call for slashes in foreign aid and an end to "the senseless, asinine busing of little school children" evoked cheers enough to flood the convention center, it was clear that the hearts and minds of most would not be swayed from Sen. George McGovern, the man to be nominated tonight.

The loudest cheers arose expectedly from the Alabama, Michigan, Florida and Texas delegations, their "Wallace for President" banners held high and their hopes soon to be shattered in the subsequent balloting over the various planks tailored for McGovern.

McGovern-Kennedy ticket is talked up

Sen. Kennedy balks

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, assured of the platform he sought and a first-ballot victory tonight in the Democratic presidential balloting, considered a list of potential running mates today. Aides said he still plans to ask a reluctant Sen. Edward M. Kennedy to join the ticket.

Wary delegates had barely 12 hours off after the longest convention session in the history of either party before tonight's climactic meeting at which McGovern was scheduled to be the first candidate placed into nomination and, when the balloting took place, the party's nominee.

California planned to yield to Connecticut when the states were called for nominations so that Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff could nominate the 49-year-old South Dakota senator to head the Democratic ticket this November.

Speculation turned immediately to possible running mates after the withdrawal of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie on Tuesday assured McGovern's nomination.

Kennedy was clearly his top choice despite repeated statements he is unavailable.

The day was marred briefly in late morning when two men were taken into custody outside McGovern's hotel by Secret Service and FBI agents. Two pistols were found in their car.

The men were black and wore jeans. They were seized shortly after McGovern had wound up a session with a group of Democratic governors.

A close personal friend of Kennedy, Sen. John V. Tunney of California, told reporters after talking with him by phone that he thinks it highly unlikely Kennedy would accept. He added he expects Kennedy to fly here from Hyannis Port, Mass., Thursday to appear at the convention with the nominee.

McGovern's aides said that others under consideration include: United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock; Sens. Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri and Abraham A. Ribicoff of Connecticut and Florida Gov. Reubin Askew.

The Democratic National Convention, meanwhile, headed toward approval of a platform that mirrors McGovern's views in calling for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina and supporting busing to improve educational opportunities.

By voice vote, the convention shouted down eight proposals, ranging from endorsement of capital punishment and public-school prayers to a constitutional amendment barring busing, despite a plea by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

As the convention deliberated through a second marathon night session Tuesday in a relaxed atmosphere after Monday night's sharp credentials battles, Wallace provided a dramatic highlight with an appeal for far-ranging tax reform and a denunciation of "the senseless asinine busing of little school children."

TED KENNEDY
... waiting in the wings

Platform hand-tailored to fit George McGovern

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Democratic National Convention gave Sen. George McGovern today the kind of platform he sought, rebuffing a personal plea that Gov. George C. Wallace made from his wheelchair for a strikingly different party document.

Reflecting in general the views of the man whose nomination now is assured, the platform calls for immediate withdrawal from Vietnam, closing of tax loopholes, replacing the welfare system with income grants and recognition of busing as one means of achieving quality education.

The delegates stayed in session from 7:30 p.m. Tuesday until 6:25 a.m. today to complete their work on the platform.

The convention gave the Alabama governor, crippled by a would-be assassin's bullets, a two-minute ovation when he was wheeled to the podium. It listened respectfully to his firm-voiced argument that it should appeal to the "75 to 80 per cent of the American people (who) are against senseless, asinine busing of school children," and, in other respects as well, largely rewrite the draft platform.

But later it shouted down, one by one, the Wallace proposals.

An even clearer demonstration of McGovern power came when the convention defeated a number of amendments, with broad-based support, but which — so the candidate's emissaries said — would be embarrassing in the campaign.

These included proposed planks favoring liberal abortion policies, nondiscrimination against homosexuals, and major goals of the National Welfare Rights Organization — a $6,500 income guarantee for a family of four, rollback of rents, government takeover and repair of substandard housing.

The majority version of the platform, adopted almost unchanged, ranges widely. Among its provisions are elimination of "unfair" Nixon administration wage-price controls, strengthened antitrust laws to break up conglomerates and to "deconcentrate" near-monopolies — with the automobile industry cited as an example — emphasis on rights of women, curbs on the congressional seniority system and insistence on open meetings, stiff controls on handguns, abolition of capital punishment and firm control of military spending.

The Wallace proposals that were rejected included a constitutional amendment for prayer in schools, affirmation of the right to bear arms, authority for states to impose capital punishment and provisions for election of some federal judges and periodic reconfirmation of others.

Governors like Mills or Kennedy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Six Democratic governors told Sen. George McGovern today that either Sen. Edward M. Kennedy or Rep. Wilbur D. Mills would be "great additions to the ticket" as vice-presidential nominees.

Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin reported this to newsmen after McGovern had entertained the group at breakfast in his hotel suite.

Lucey said that Kennedy first came in for highly favorable mention as running mate with McGovern on the Democratic ticket.

There was equally high praise, he said, for Mills whose name was brought up by Arkansas Gov. Dale Bumpers.

Lucey said McGovern spoke highly of both Kennedy and Mills, as he had previously, but did not express any preference.

Mills' machinery is in high gear

By JOHN R. STARR
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Machinery was set up today to present Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination even though everyone concedes that the position belongs to Sen. George McGovern.

A source close to Mills confirmed reports that Mills' name would be placed before the Democratic National Convention by an old friend, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, speaker of the U.S. House.

Asked about the report, Albert hedged. He said he stood ready to nominate Mills if asked. He also said that he would vote for Mills and that he expected at least 25 of the 28 uncommitted votes in the Oklahoma delegation would go to Mills.

For the third straight day, Mills maintained only loose contact with an Arkansas delegation which has pledged all 27 of its votes to him.

Gov. Dale Bumpers, chairman of the delegation, learned during the day that Mills planned to go ahead with his nomination even though McGovern's strength caused two major candidates—Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie—to withdraw during the day.

But Arkansas delegates had no direct word from Mills on nomination procedures. Bumpers said he would meet with Mills Wednesday morning and he hoped to have something to announce by noon.

Mills filed Tuesday a petition containing more than the minimum requirement of 100 delegate signatures.

A few Arkansas delegates showed irritation at a caucus Tuesday because Mills had not been more open about his plans and one, Henry Wilkins of Pine Bluff, indicated he felt Mills should release the delegation.

7 names to be placed in nomination at convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Seven candidates are eligible to have their names placed in nomination tonight to be the Democratic presidential standard bearer.

The names of Sens. George McGovern and Henry M. Jackson, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, Reps. Shirley Chisholm and Wilbur D. Mills, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford were submitted before the 6 p.m. deadline Tuesday.

The Rules Committee scheduled a drawing this morning for the order in which the names would be placed in nomination for tonight's balloting.

No dancing in the streets with McGovern win

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Yuppies, Zippies and Gays didn't join hands and dance in the streets when George McGovern clinched the Democratic presidential nomination.

Bella blasts Shirley

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Rep. Bella Abzug of New York angrily accused actress Shirley MacLaine early today of sabotaging an effort to add more women delegates from South Carolina.

"You stole that from us," Rep. Abzug told the actress in the brief exchange on the floor of the Democratic National Convention in front of the California delegation, of which Ms. MacLaine — she prefers Ms. — is a member.

When the actress tried to explain that a number of McGovern supporters had switched from support of the South Carolina women Monday night, in order to avoid a parliamentary test that could have jeopardized their chances on the crucial California credentials vote, the New York congresswoman snapped:

"I don't care about Gary Hart (McGovern's campaign manager); he's a 31-year-old kid."

"If you want the best for women," Ms. MacLaine responded, "help George McGovern." Without the switch of the votes, she added, McGovern might have lost the presidential nomination.

Confession is admitted

LOD, Israel (AP) — A military court agreed today to admit a confession of Japanese terrorist Kozo Okamoto on the Lod Airport massacre.

The three-man court said the 24-year-old Japanese radical knew that a suicide provision he had signed in exchange for the confession was no longer valid.

Hall, what with all the pot, skinny dipping and good vibes to be had.

"What difference does it make?" asked David Cohen, a member of the Students for a Democratic Society from Chicago. "He isn't going to end racism. He isn't going to buy capitalism."

But if there was little celebrating that McGovern had won out in the preconvention maneuvering, it was easy to find a kind word for the South Dakota senator.

"Anything would make me happy if it means Nixon will no longer rule the country," said Kenneth Grogan, 26, of Tampa, Fla. "McGovern is about the best there is, but I don't think everyone is satisfied with him."

The prospect of McGovern as president was cheered some of the young people.

"I'm happy about it," said Bill Kohler, a beer-sipping former Army private who now belongs to Vietnam Veterans Against the War. "I'd like someone to stop the war right now, and he can't do that. But he's still our best hope."

Several nondelegates at Flamingo Park worried that McGovern might change some of his positions.

"I hope he doesn't back down on a lot of implied promises," said Ti Culver, a 23-year-old Minnesota volunteer for the People's Party. "He's already backed off on abortion, amnesty and drug laws."

An even stronger criticism came from the Zippies, a vocal group of dissidents who broke with the Youth International Party—Yippies.

"After some of the compromises he's made with conservative Democrats, I'm beginning to wonder," said Zippie Eddie Harper of Orlando, Fla. "He may turn out just like Tricky Dick if he keeps on like he's going."

But the skeptics were far outnumbered Tuesday night by the apathetic — demonstrators who grooved with their own thing under the huge banyan tree in Flamingo Park.

When Democrats wrangled over the crucial California delegation challenge early Tuesday morning, less than a hundred young protesters watched on a color television set perched on a table in the park. At the same time, nearly 200 jockeyed for a good seat at the swimming pool where skinny dippers frolicked.

When McGovern himself showed up to address a senior citizen's rally at the Flamingo Park stadium Sunday, only a scattering of youths were intermingled with the oldsters.

Susan Wolf, a pretty blonde in a long dress, was asked how she liked the senator's speech as she walked back to the park.

"Actually, I didn't hear what he said," she answered with a thin smile. "I was too stoned."

Party will continue reforms

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Delegates to the Democratic National Convention have voted to continue the reforms inaugurated this year in an attempt to make it the true "party of the people."

By voice vote Tuesday night delegates adopted several more reforms aimed at insuring that the 1976 Democratic presidential candidate is nominated by delegate slates which reflect the social mix even more than 1972 delegations.

This year's reforms added more women, blacks and young persons to the delegations.

One reform adopted for 1976 calls for adequate representation for persons of low income.

Another abolished winner-take-all primaries such as in California, which this year spurred the biggest credentials battle of the convention.

Sen. George McGovern won California's 271 delegates in the primary. But his opponents unsuccessfully petitioned the Credentials Committee, the courts and the convention itself to divide the California delegation in proportion equal to the voting.

In 1976, a proportional division will be required.

Proposal to reconstruct Democratic Party doomed

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A proposal to rebuild the Democratic party on the basis of the 1972 convention reforms appears doomed, victim of the California credentials fight, strong opposition from organized labor and party pros, and general apathy.

The plan, which would establish a national Democratic party with dues-paying members and run by grass-roots-controlled organizations, is unlikely even to come to a vote at the convention.

The proposed charter would extend into the party organization the open procedures and broadened representation that have been applied successfully to the national convention. The convention enthusiastically extended the reforms to the 1976 convention Tuesday night, but there is no such ready acceptance as yet for restructuring the party.

The proposed charter was drafted by two party-reform commissions set up by the 1968 convention, including one that Sen. George McGovern led before entering the presidential race. It was approved by the convention's Rules Committee, but has one more hurdle to clear before it can be presented to the convention for final approval.

It takes a special resolution from the Rules Committee to send it to the floor, and the committee was unable to act

Sunday when it was supposed to because of a fight over California delegate seating.

With that opportunity gone, sponsors of the charter fear it will be lost in the convention's rush toward nominating McGovern and a running mate.

Quiet protests at Miami convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cubans marched for freedom to fight. Vietnam veterans marched for peace. And farm workers marched against Florida Gov. Reubin Askew's migrant manpower training program.

Students for a Democratic Society protested a fashion show for political leaders' wives. And the Southern Christian Leadership Conference continued to demand 750 floor seats to the Democratic National Convention under threat of "other actions like blocking intersections."

It all went on peacefully outside the perimeter fence at Convention Hall and surroundings Tuesday. Delegates and spectators with seats inside were inconvenienced only to the extent of being shunted to gates farthest away from the demonstration of the moment.

"We want the people inside the convention to know that we want to go back to Cuba. We want a free hand to buy guns," said a spokesman for 1,000 demonstrating Cubans as they walked around the sprawling convention grounds.

Close on their heels came 2,000 residents of Resurrection City II and sympathizers, led by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

3rd annual food fair held here

Recognition of participants in the Southwest Arkansas Development Council's emergency food and medical program was the main item on the agenda of the 3rd Annual Food Fair held here Friday and Saturday.

The fair, which included fresh and canned fruits and vegetables on display at the Fair Park Coliseum, included farm products grown by residents from seven counties—Hempstead, Nevada, LaFayette, Miller, Howard, Sevier, and Little River.

The seven countywide program purchased more than $26,000 in seeds and fertilizer for more than 1,500 low-income families. The food fair "enables the participants of the program to show us what they have accomplished," according to Mark H. Lambert Jr. of Texarkana, program director.

Each year the Council, through its emergency food and medical funds, school individuals on canning and other preservative practices, Lambert said. "This is done hoping that low-income families will produce foodstuffs with their own available resources."

Judges for the food fair this year were Mrs. Odessa Smith, Foreman, state Rep. George Davis and Mrs. Davis, Sevier County; T. R. Kirby, Prescott High School agriculture teacher; Mrs. Velma Grinnitt and Mrs. Buddy Fallin, both of Stamps; and Mrs. Doyle Smith, Mrs. Patricia Thomas, and Mrs. Paul Mahar, all of Lewisville.

Mark H. Lambert Jr. of Texarkana, director of the Emergency Food and Medical Program sponsored by the Southwest Arkansas Development Council, inspects an ear of corn on display at the 3rd Annual Food Fair held here last weekend at the Fair Park Coliseum.

The Food Fair consisted of entrants from seven counties—Hempstead, Nevada, LaFayette, Howard, Sevier, Little River, and Miller. (See article at right.)

Pre-nuptial parties fete Miss Royston

This past weekend Miss Margie Royston, bride-elect of Joe Scruggs, III of Little Rock, was honored with two parties in Little Rock. The first was a morning coffee on Friday, July 7, in the home of Mrs. James L. Morris. Co-hostesses were Mesdames James R. Morrison, James L. Smith, W. S. Miller, A. James Linder, L. S. Woolsey, Guy Miller, M. G. McMurray, Herschel Friday, and Letha Wheeler.

Miss Royston wore yellow and white linen and had a pale yellow corsage of feathered mums. Daisies centered the ecru curwork cloth where coffee was served with an assortment of cheese, bacon and sweet snacks and melon balls. The hostesses presented the guest of honor a gift of silver.

The mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Joe B. Scruggs, Jr.

of Little Rock and Mrs. G. D. Royston, Jr. of Hope, were among the 75 guests at the coffee and among the 17 guests on Saturday, July 8, at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Royston at the home of Miss Jerry Lu Critz.

The co-hostesses, Misses Critz, Sheila Galbraith and Pam Rogers, presented their honored guest a keepsake corsage, which she pinned to her brown and white cotton frock. Several games were played, and the guests were served from a lace covered table centered with pale yellow carnations and daisies. Refreshments were yellow and white cake, yellow fruit punch, nuts and mints.

The bride-elect received many gifts, including cookware from the hostesses.

Surgery, behavior are linked

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to ask you about your statement that "frankly psychotic behavior often occurs after open heart surgery." My daughter is scheduled to have surgery at age 5 or 6 to correct tetralogy of Fallot and I would like to know if we should watch for behavior other than normal at this time. I am a nurse and we are rather strict with her and I am afraid that if we are unaware of possible changes, we would think it was "sickly child syndrome" and become even more severe.

Dear Reader—The psychological problems that some people have after heart surgery are commonly noted immediately after surgery, before they leave the hospital.

For the operation your daughter will have, I should think that if she were going to have any problems of this nature they would be recognized by the hospital staff. It has been my general impression that these problems are more apt to occur in adults than they are in children. Perhaps this is because adults often have a number of other medical problems that have accumulated over the years and as a nurse you probably realize that young children often tolerate even major surgery far better than adults do.

For the benefit of our other readers, a tetralogy of Fallot is a birth defect of the heart which is associated with a hole between the lower pumping chambers of the heart (the right and left ventricle) and a displacement of the artery that carries blood to the body and the artery to the lungs. The combination of defects often causes a child to be cyanotic or blue. Many of these, as with other birth defects of the heart, can be corrected with modern heart surgery.

Golden Age Club meets

The Rev. G.W. Hooten led the Golden Age Club in singing "Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus" and "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder" at a meeting of the club Thursday, July 6 at the Douglas Building, and Mrs. Gertrude Martindale accompanied at the piano. Brother Hooten also led in prayer.

Club President Mrs. Ola Smith had charge of the routine business meeting that included the roll call and reading of the minutes. She introduced a special guest, Paul Henley of the Parks and Recreation Department. He told the club the good news that a Golden Age Bus was now available to transport members to and from the meetings.

The Rev. Hooten closed the meeting with prayer. During the social hour, he won the doorprize. Cookies and cold drinks were served to 15. The next meeting, July 20, will be a luncheon at the Douglas Building.

HELEN BOTTEL

"Family" Life Not for Her
Dear Helen:
While in California I met a man who is kind, considerate, loving, wonderful and 12 years older than me. He lives in a sort of commune with three other guys and two girls. Will is 32, the rest of them in their early 20s.

He has lead a very rough life: orphaned at three, adopted by a mean aunt who hated him. He has spent a total of ten years in prison for attempted rape and murder, also theft.

He paid his debt to society with five years in the Army, 30 months in Vietnam—and an honorable discharge.
We fell in love, but one thing blocks our marriage. He wanted me to live in the commune as a "member of the family," until he could afford an apartment. I thought I could do it so a week before our marriage I moved in as a test. It was a nightmare, Helen. These people live very "free," take Sunshine (acid)—two of them are pushers; get drunk and high, swear with every breath, and sleep together any which way.

Starting the first night, Will spent almost no time with me—he was always "with the group." They wouldn't accept me and I couldn't accept them, so I left and moved back to my home state. Will was furious at first and accused me of hating his friends, being a snob, etc. But now he's started writing and begging me to come back. "Have patience," he says,

"until we can afford to leave the group." I'm afraid he never will. They're the only "family" he's got. I guess I'm just a midwest "square."
I still love him deeply. Should I give it a second try? — BEWILDERED

Dear B.:
A midwest "square" and an ex-con swinger-doper have as little in common as Jane Fonda and John Wayne (no comparisons intended).

Consider this: your wonderful guy went to prison (at 17?) for crimes of violence; spent over half of his Army years in violent combat duty; now lives with drug-pushers where violence is just beneath the surface—and he likes his life! Which MIGHT leave him permanently "kind, considerate, and loving," but somehow I doubt it.

You made the right choice. Don't weaken! —H.

Miss Hodges is honored at breakfast

Mrs. T.H. Seymour, Miss Eleanor Seymour and Miss Ina Logan entertained with a breakfast at The Heritage House honoring Miss Rebecca Susan Hodges, bride-elect of Otis W. Blackwood.

Guests were greeted by the hostesses, the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Lewis D. Hodges, North Little Rock, and Mrs. Otis A. Blackwood, mother of the bridegroom-elect.

Miss Hodges wore a beige and purple knit frock and pinned a white cymbidium orchid at her shoulder. The hostesses also presented her with a gift of crystal.

Mrs. Hodges, Mrs. Blackwood and Mrs. C.H. Wilson, grandmother of the bridegroom-elect, were presented corsages of daisies and blue bachelor buttons.

Place cards with a bridal motif marked places for the sixteen guests. They were seated at a beautifully appointed table covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a crystal bowl holding an elongated arrangement of daisies and blue bachelor buttons, complimented on either side by nosegays.

The registry held a similar arrangement of daisies and blue bachelor buttons and the bride's book with plumed pen.

Bridge winners

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kelly were hosts for a meeting of the Hope Duplicate Bridge Club on Monday, July 3. Among the 3 tables of players, the winning couple was Mrs. Taylor Stuart and Mrs. E. J. Whitman.

Other winners were: second, Mrs. J. C. Broyles and Mrs. R.L. Broach; and third, Mrs. Mike Kelly and Mrs. George Wright. The meeting July 10 will be at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Fick.

Focus on Fun

Vote-oriented fashions steal the scene, from clothes to accessories. Her navy blue hot pants, patterned with white stars, are combined with a halter top in a red, white and blue patch print. Even her calendar wristwatch is red, white and blue—with a "Vote" message on the face. And her pocket camera gets into the political picture for chance pictures of candidates, or choice pictures of summer fun.

"Vote" Clothes Spread the Message

Red, white and blue are the colors for '72. Stars and stripes, donkeys, elephants and "Vote" motifs are found on everything from jewelry and dresses to posters and notebooks.

Election year '72 is colorful and exciting—and a big year for picture-takers. It's a good idea to carry your camera with you and stock up on color film. Presidential candidates and their wives, or senators, representatives and governors may be campaigning in your hometown. Perhaps a friend can snap a picture of you shaking hands with your favorite candidate. Pictures like these will become valuable souvenirs in a few years.

Wear bright colors to add interest. A patriotic outfit would be ideal, and there's a wide selection. You can get scarves in red, white and blue—and earrings, sweat shirts and tote bags that carry the "Vote" message.

You can choose from fashions and accessories that indicate party preference. For example, with six end flaps from three rolls of any Kodak color film and $4.95, you can have a choice of three calendar wristwatches. They are available in three face types—a Democratic donkey, Republican elephant, or patriotic Uncle Sam. Mail order forms concerning these "Vote's Choice" timepieces are available at your local photo dealer.

Whatever your political preference, remember to register and vote.

Miss Jones is guest of honor

Miss Marlene Jones, bride-elect of Ted Legatski II, Bartlesville, Okla., whose wedding will be solemnized at 2 p.m. August 5 in the First Assembly of God Church, was the guest of honor at a linen shower Friday, June 30, given by Mrs. W. A. Williams, Mrs. Autrey Foster, and Mrs. Brents McPherson at the McPherson home.

The dining table was centered with an arrangement of daisies and greenery. Brunch was served to 30 guests. The honoree received many lovely gifts.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A "white elephant" is a term used to describe something whose upkeep costs more than its worth. The World Almanac notes that ancient rulers of Thailand are said to have made gifts of sacred albino elephants to noblemen who had become too powerful or influential, which eventually led to their bankruptcy.

Miss Ables is honored at gift tea

Before her recent marriage to Freddie Easterling, Miss Julia Ables was honored with a gift tea at the Douglas Building on June 23. Mrs. Gordon Renshaw and Mrs. Jerry Brown, sister of the groom-elect, greeted the guests at the door and introduced them to the receiving line, where they met the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Phil Ables of Texarkana; her fiancée's mother, Mrs. Lile Easterling; her grandmother, Mrs. Fouke of Texarkana; and his grandmother, Mrs. Otis Purtle.

The guest of honor, attired in blue voile, pinned a bridal corsage at her shoulder. A yellow cloth covering the serving table was centered with an arrangement of marigolds and Queen Anne's lace. Silver appointments were used for serving punch, cake, mints and nuts by Mrs. J. C. Howell, Mrs. Edward Cooper, Mrs. Tommy Montgomery and Mrs. Jack Brown.

Mrs. Carl Ward presided at the book where 35 guests registered. Daisies centered the table where many pretty gifts were displayed. Hostesses were Mesdames Renshaw, Ward, Howell, Cooper, Montgomery, Brown, Harold Bobo, Lawrence Easterling, Harrell Collier, Wallis Monroe, J. T. Still, Rosco Bowden, Olin Purcell and Carrol Yocom.

Chicago Bulls are without a home

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chicago Bulls were without a home court today, while the Boston Celtics, Atlantic Division champions of the National Basketball Association, had only their second sole owner in their 26-year history.

The Bulls have played the last five seasons in Chicago Stadium, after playing in the Chicago Amphitheatre in 1966-67, their first season in the league.

At present, they have no lease for next season for either arena.

They could play in the Amphitheatre, which holds about 10,500 for basketball, if the league's Board of Governors reconsiders a $5.0 million offer to purchase the club by a nine-man group from Milwaukee and Chicago, headed by Marvin L. Fishman, a Milwaukee realtor.

The Board rejected Tuesday the Fishman group offer to buy the Bulls from Elmer Rich.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy indicated that the Governors did not approve the offer because the Bulls were unable to obtain a lease for the Stadium.

Tuesday, Fishman said his group had signed a three-year lease with the Amphitheatre, but the Board still turned down the offer.

"I'm disappointed by the temporary setback our group received," said Fishman. "I would like to emphasize the word temporary. We intend to pursue every legal action to assume our acquisition of the team."

Should the efforts of the Fishman group fail, the Bulls could be sold to a group including Arthur Wirtz, owner of the 19,500-seat Stadium. It has been reported that with the rejection of Fishman, approval is expected to be given to the Wirtz group, which has a 10-year lease at favorable rental terms ready for the Bulls.

Meanwhile, the Board approved the sale of the Celtics for $5.1 million to Robert Schmetz, a 46-year-old realtor from Lakewood, N.J.

He will be sole owner of the club. The only other individual owner in the team's history was the late Walter Brown, who purchased the Celtics in their infancy in 1946. He died in 1964, but by that time was co-owner with Lou Pieri.

Schmetz, also part owner of the New England Whalers in the new World Hockey Association, is reported as saying he will keep the club in Boston, despite rumors to the contrary. He also is retaining Arnold "Red" Auerbach as president and general manager.

Robinson will retire

LIBERTY, Mo. (AP) — Johnny Robinson, veteran safety of the Kansas City Chiefs, planned to hold a news conference today to announce his retirement from professional football.

The news conference was scheduled at 11:30 a.m., CDT, in the office of Coach Hank Stram on the campus of William Jewell College where the Chiefs opened their training camp Monday to prepare for the coming National Football League season.

Robinson, 32, was not present when the Chiefs had their initial get-together. He was being examined by his physician.

The star defensive player suffered a groin injury last Christmas Day in the second quarter of the American Conference playoff game between the Chiefs and the Miami Dolphins.

The injury was a factor in Robinson's decision to retire and devote his time to business in Kansas City. Another factor was his age.

Robinson, a pro for 12 years, was with the Dallas Texans before the franchise was moved to Kansas City. He is the last original player from the old American Football League on the team.

Robinson played college football at Louisiana State.

Lambert injured

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Jerry Lambert has suffered a broken collarbone in a motorcycle accident, and doctors said Tuesday he may be sidelined two months.

Lambert last month, suffered the injury to his right clavicle Sunday night at Hollywood Park, a track spokesman said. Doctors said X rays showed the break to be a serious one.

Reykjavik, Iceland (AP) — Defending champion Boris Spassky was favored by the experts to beat American challenger Bobby Fischer in the opening game of the world chess match when play resumes this afternoon.

The opener of the richest chess competition in history adjourned Tuesday night after 4 hours and 34 minutes of play and 40 moves by each player.

The game was to resume at 5 p.m.—1 p.m. EDT.

Referee Lothar Schmid of West Germany will make Spassky's 41st move. The Russian wrote it on a slip of paper and handed it to him in a sealed envelope at the adjournment.

The two competitors, their seconds and chess enthusiasts throughout the world spent part of the overnight break analyzing possibilities for the 11 pieces remaining on the green-and-white chessboard in Reykjavik's sports hall: king and five pawns for Fischer; king, bishop and three pawns for Spassky.

The match had appeared headed for a draw until Fischer tried to seize the initiative on his 29th move.

The lanky Brooklyn, N.Y., challenger galloped his bishop down a long black diagonal to snatch an unprotected pawn Spassky had offered. A few moves later the bishop was trapped and lost in exchange for two pawns.

U.S. grandmaster Robert Byrne said it was a blunder and commented, "Fischer is going to have trouble making a draw. I don't see how Spassky can lose."

Analyzing the game for The Associated Press, international grandmaster Isaac Kashdan termed Fischer's move "a rare miscalculation by the American genius." He said it gave Spassky good prospects for a win.

Svetozar Gligoric, the Yugoslav grandmaster present at the tournament, said, "It is doubtful whether black can save a draw." Spassky, who had the first move, is playing the white pieces, Fischer the black.

Fischer has played Spassky five times in the past, losing all three times he played the black pieces and getting draws both times he played the whites and had the advantage of the first move.

A draw counts half a point and a win a point in the 24-game championship match. To dethrone Spassky, Fischer needs 12½ points while the Russian can retain his crown with 12 points.

The winner will get $153,125 in prize money, the loser $91,875, and in addition they will divide equally an estimated $55,000 or more from film and television sales.

Red Sox shut-out Oakland

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The "Pattin" story unfolded in dramatic fashion at the Oakland Coliseum.

Marty Pattin was the hero, firing bullets at the Oakland A's.

Two outs away from a no-hitter, the Boston Red Sox pitcher finally surrendered a single to Reggie Jackson before winning the battle 4-0 on a powerhouse one-hitter.

"I guess that's as close as I'll ever come to a no-hitter," said Pattin after Jackson's hit just eluded second baseman Doug Griffin in the ninth inning.

The pitch that Jackson caught was a high fast ball with "something on it." Pattin said he'd throw it again in the same situation.

In Tuesday's other American League contests, the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Kansas City Royals 2-1 in 10 innings; the Detroit Tigers nipped the Texas Rangers 6-5; the Chicago White Sox trimmed the Cleveland Indians 4-3; the New York Yankees stopped the California Angels 7-3 and the Milwaukee Brewers turned back the Minnesota Twins 5-4.

In the National League, it was Cincinnati 5, Pittsburgh 0; Atlanta 5, St. Louis 4 in 15 innings; Philadelphia 4, Los Angeles 1; San Francisco 6, New York 1; Montreal 6, San Diego 5 in 12 innings and Houston 6, Chicago 5 in the first game of a doubleheader and Chicago 9, Houston 5 in the second.

Using hard sliders and fastballs as his main weapons, Pattin cut down Oakland batters until the A's last stand. Joe Rudi went down for Pattin's seventh strikeout to open the ninth.

Then Jackson spoiled Pattin's no-hitter.

"I guess this is the best game I ever pitched," said Pattin, who received a standing ovation from the crowd of 5,539 when he came to bat in the ninth.

Pattin, obtained in a 10-player trade from Milwaukee during the off-season, won his fourth straight game and improved his record to 6-8 with the near-masterpiece, fashioned on 117 pitches.

Carlton Fisk's 11th homer of the season gave Pattin a 1-0 lead in the second inning. The Red Sox added another in the fourth on hits by Carl Yastrzemski, Rico Petrocelli, a walk and a forceout.

Hits by Yastrzemski, Petrocelli and Fisk produced another run in the eighth and Boston added its final run in the ninth when Juan Beniquez tripled and scored on a wild pitch.

Tom Shopay walked with the bases loaded in the 10th inning, forcing in the winning run as Baltimore halted a five-game losing streak. Reliever Ken Wright, the Royals' second pitcher of the inning, gave up the game-ending walk after the Orioles had filled the bases on a double by Brooks Robinson and walks to Bobby Grich and Boog Powell.

The Royals had taken a 1-0 lead in the first on singles by Amos Otis, Richie Scheinblum and Lou Piniella. The Orioles tied it in the sixth on pitcher Jim Palmer's run-scoring single. Palmer recorded his 12th victory with a seven-hitter.

Detroit kept its tenuous one-game lead over Baltimore in the East by beating Texas on Mickey Stanley's tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning. It was Stanley's third homer in the last three games and continued his game-breaking habits.

"I'll be happy if I can do as well in the second half of the season with key hits," said Stanley, who has produced 27 RBI despite a sub-par, .230 batting average.

Chicago struck for three runs in the seventh inning on a two-run homer by Rick Reichardt and a solo shot by Ed Spiezio to beat Cleveland. The long ball barrage turned the game around against Dick Tidrow, who had allowed only two hits and struck out 10 until that juncture.

Felipe Alou and Ron Swoboda each drove n two runs during a six-run rally in the third inning as New York breezed by California. Fritz Peterson went the distance for the Yankees, allowing nine hits, and boosted his record to 8-10.

Joe Lahoud's ninth inning two-run homer carried Milwaukee over Minnesota. The Twins took a 4-3 lead into the ninth but Ron Clark opened with a single and then Lahoud unloaded his fifth homer of the year.

The bookies listed Nicklaus as 9-4 favorite, with Trevino second choice at 6-1 and Gary Player of South Africa third at 12-1.

Britain's Tony Jacklin, another former titleholder, was a 16-1 shot while Billy Casper and Arnold Palmer were 20-1.

Trevino played only two practice rounds, but was brimming with confidence. "Of course, I can win," he said. "I wouldn't bother coming here if I thought I couldn't."

Thousands of golf fans besieged the course southeast of Edinburgh as play began for the 101st championship with prize money totaling about $130,000.

The main focus was on Nicklaus, who needs the British title to complete the third leg of the Grand Slam—sweeping the four major pro tournaments. He already has won the of the Masters and U.S. Open. The British Open and the PGA at Birmingham, Mich., next month would complete the sweep.

On the eve of the British Open, Nicklaus mused: "The Grand Slam only becomes realistic if I win here. So I'm concentrating on that."

Nicklaus planned to sleep late because he was among the late starters.

Defending champion Lee Trevino had a much earlier start-ing time.

The bookies listed Nicklaus as 9-4 favorite, with Trevino second choice at 6-1 and Gary Player of South Africa third at 12-1.

Expos trim Padres 6-5; Braves edge Cards 5-4

By HAL BOCK

Patience is a virtue to be admired. Everything comes, it has been said, to those who wait. The Montreal Expos and Atlanta Braves found out that the adage applies to baseball, too.

The Expos and Braves both struggled into extra innings Tuesday night and were rewarded with National League victories. Montreal trimmed San Diego 6-5 in 12 innings and Atlanta went 15 innings to beat St. Louis 5-4.

In other National League action, San Francisco defeated New York 6-1, Philadelphia tripped Los Angeles 4-1, Cincinnati shut out Pittsburgh 5-0 and Houston split a doubleheader with Chicago, winning the opener 6-5 but dropping the nightcap 9-5.

In the American League, Boston shut out Oakland 4-0, Detroit edged Texas 6-5, Milwaukee nipped Minnesota 5-4, Baltimore edged Kansas City 2-1 in 10 innings, Chicago topped Cleveland 4-3 and New York whipped California 7-3.

The Expos overcame home runs by Derrell Thomas and Clarence Gaston which staked San Diego to an early 5-3 lead. Ken Singleton had homered for Montreal.

The Expos tied it in the seventh on Tim Lincecum's two-run single.

It was still tied in the 12th when Singleton opened with a single. Bob Bailey was credited with a hit when his grounder struck Singleton, retiring the runner. But Clyde Mashore followed with a double, scoring Bailey from first with the deciding run.

Hank Aaron poled his 658th career homer for Atlanta but the Cardinals caught the Braves in the seventh inning, tying the score on Lou Brock's fourth hit, second stolen base, a throwing error by Earl Williams and Ted Sizemore's sacrifice fly.

They shouldn't have bothered.

The teams battled into the 15th when Atlanta finally pushed across the winning run with the help of two wild pitches by reliever Lowell Palmer.

Gil Garrido opened with a single, moved up on a wild pitch and long fly before scoring on Palmer's second wild pitch.

The Mets, who are losing ball players almost as frequently as ball games, dropped another of each. Outfielder John Milner was carried off the field after a collision with shortstop Bud Harrelson in the third inning of New York's game against San Francisco.

Milner suffered a neck injury and Chris Speier's pop fell for a double, scoring two runs for the Giants. The Mets, already missing three regular outfielders because of injuries, replaced Milner with catcher Duffy Dyer and in the seventh Speier hit another pop fly which Dyer let drop for an error and two more Giants' runs.

Ron Bryant pitched a two-hitter for the victory.

present site hard by the Firth of Forth on the East coast of Scotland.

And they drew up the game's first set of rules, 13 of them.

The first rule was: "The tee shall be not more than one club length from the hole."

The second rule was: "The tee shall be on the ground."

Joe Dey, a noted historian, former head of the USGA and now commissioner of the Tournament Players Division of the PGA, explained about rule No. 1.

"This, of course, was before there were wooden tees. The player would reach into the hole to get a handful of sand and pour it on the ground to form a tee. Now, there was no rule covering uniformity of the size of the hole. So as the day went on and more players went through, the hole got bigger and bigger."

"But, teeing it up one club length from the hole, can you imagine what the putting green looked like?"

Gov. Askew calls on Democrats to head 'coalition of protest'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew has called on Democrats to spearhead a coalition of protest for change in America.

"There is indeed a new coalition in this country, a coalition of protest," the Florida governor said Tuesday night in the keynote speech to the Democratic National Convention.

"It includes black and white, young and old, North and South, right and left, some of the rich, most of the poor, and millions of overtaxed and overcharged middle-income Americans as well."

He found the "face of America" in the newly broadened makeup of the convention delegates, and like the nation, he found differences in the party.

The coalition "has the potential to unite Americans and make a difference in this country, but only if it holds together," he said.

"Let us remember that this nation was founded on diversity, that our differences can be a source of strength as well as weakness, that a good and open fight can be a vigorous way of searching for the truth, that while no one person or group possesses the absolute truth, every person and every group has something of value to offer," Askew said.

The time has come, he said, "when we must stop talking about an American dream and start listening to the dreams of Americans."

"Americans dream of a day when they're at peace in the world, and at peace with themselves. They dream of a day when all the fathers and all the sons, in all the prisons and jungles of Asia, not only come home again, but come home to stay."

"A day when we spread democracy abroad by making it work in our own country, a day when we place more value on human happiness than the gross national product."

Jones' trial continues

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The income tax evasion trial of state sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway continued today in U.S. District Court here. The government was expected to complete its case Thursday.

Tuesday 15 persons testified they paid attorney fees ranging from $100 to $1,750 to Jones in 1965 and 1966 for representing them in legal matters.

Asst. U. S. Atty. James G. Mixon said the government would seek to show later through the testimony of a special agent for the Internal Revenue Service that part or all of these fees were not reported on Jones' income tax returns.

Jones is on trial on charges of evading $5,200.25 in income taxes and filing false tax returns for 1965 and 1966. The government called nine witnesses Monday and 29 more Tuesday.

Raye Hockenbury, 67, of Conway testified Tuesday he paid Jones $1,750 in cash for representing him in an auto accident in 1965. He said he received a $3,500 check from an insurance company in settlement of the case, cashed it and gave Jones half the amount.

On cross-examination, Leon B. Catlett of Little Rock, Jones' attorney, questioned Hockenbury about whether his share of the settlement actually was not more. He showed Hockenbury a notation on the file holder of the case from Jones' office that said Hockenbury had received $3,000 from Jones in "full settlement."

Hockenbury said the signature under the notation looked like his writing but that he did not remember seeing the notation before. He insisted that he and Jones each received $1,750 of the $3,500. This also coincided with an affidavit he gave the Internal Revenue Service in 1969.

George Covington of Conway, a roofing contractor, testified that he paid $2,500 to Jones for representing him in an auto accident case in 1965 but said that Jones paid the trial expenses from that. Covington said he thought "he gave some of the witness gifts."

Wayne J. Sowell of Conway testified he paid Jones $175 for representing him in a divorce proceeding. When reminded by U. S. District Court Judge J. Smith Henley that he had testified before the federal Grand Jury that the payment was "around $300" he said that was the amount.

Several other witnesses also acknowledged under cross-examination that Jones had to pay some expenses from the amount they paid him.

3 slain in Ireland

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen killed three persons early today as Northern Ireland's Protestants got ready for their first big march of the summer.

Automatic fire riddled a 19-year-old Protestant walking with his father in a park in the town of Portadown. An hour later, five masked gunmen believed to be Protestant executioners broke into a home in Belfast and murdered a 16-year-old Catholic. And the body of a hooded man, shot in the head, was found in Belfast, apparently another victim of the assassins who have terrorized the city for weeks.

Meanwhile, the British government ordered 32,000 troops, police and militiamen into the streets of 18 cities and towns to keep the warring religious factions apart today while 100,000

Protestants of the Orange Order paraded.

Belfast was lit by scores of street bonfires during the night, marking the advent of the "Glorious Twelfth." It is the 282nd anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne, in which the Protestant armies of William of Orange defeated the Roman Catholic forces of James II.

Amid politicians' warnings that Northern Ireland is closer to civil war than at any time in the three years of communal violence, the militant Protestants of the Ulster Defense Association said their armed units would protect the marchers from attack by the Catholics of the Irish Republican Army.

Government forces cordoned the line of march in Belfast to block attacks by Catholics enraged by the display of Protestant dominance. Catholics of the Andersonstown, Ballymurphy and Ardoyne districts sealed off their sectors with barricades of concrete and steel to keep out Protestant raiders.

Trouble was feared in Portadown, a town of 13,000 population 25 miles southwest of Belfast. The route of the parade there ran through a Catholic section, and the IRA said it would not allow the marchers through. The UDA said it was prepared for a showdown.

The buildup to the parades was ominous.

1-man wake for end of era

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — In 1960 political boss Alex Presta promised John F. Kennedy his machine would deliver a majority of 22,000 votes in 10 Kansas City wards. Instead, he gave him 22,063.

At 70, Presta is a smalltime machine politician who has spent a lifetime hustling votes, heeling wards and maneuvering to get his political pillow next to winning Democratic bed-fellows.

Only 24 hours before his party picks a presidential candidate, the old pro in the spiffy white shoes held a one-man wake Tuesday night for the twilight of his era.

But as he sat alone in the lobby of the Ivanhoe Hotel and talked about the future of political machines, he made it clear he was not about to quit.

"McGovern and his people have succeeded in kicking out the old politicians—temporarily—and it's the biggest mistake they ever made," said Presta. "But believe me, just because Dick Daley isn't sitting on that convention floor doesn't mean the oldtime political machines have come to a grinding halt."

"We just need a little more oil, and we don't need to buy it from George McGovern," said Presta.

DAVID PORTERFIELD

David Porterfield is Kiwanis speaker

David Porterfield of Nashville, Ark. was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. Kiwanian Royce Weisenberger arranged the program and introduced the speaker.

Porterfield, who grew up in Hope and starred with the Bobcats of a few years ago, is now working in a comparatively new field in the courts of Arkansas. He is a court appointed, full time, probation officer in the circuit over which Judge Bobby Steele presides. He is one of only two in this area of Arkansas, the other being located in Pine Bluff.

This new program is supported 75 per cent by the Federal Crime Commission and 25 per cent by local funds.

Porterfield explained the difference in parole and probation and the functions of Parole and Probation Officers.

In the last few years law enforcement people have taken a new look at the treatment accorded law violators and a new concept with regard to first and minor offenders seems to be emerging. There is a reluctance on the part of the courts to place first offenders and minor offenders in places of incarceration with the hardened criminal. In keeping with this idea the probation officer approach has been used effectively in some areas.

An offender is brought before the court. His offense is of a minor nature or it is his first court appearance. The court assesses a deserved sentence, but the sentence is suspended or he is placed on probation, and is placed under the supervision of the court's probation officer. It is the responsibility of the probation officer to go into the home and counsel with the offender and his family; to help him find gainful employment; and to give any other assistance that will tend to rehabilitate the offender.

Porterfield stated that he is now working with sixty individuals assigned to him. They vary in age from 15 to 50. He and the court feel that these offenders need supervision rather than imprisonment.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Harold Dickerson, J. H. and Jimmy Porterfield, father and brother of the speaker, Dale Jones, all of Hope; Jimmy Miller of Memphis, and Clyde Davis, Sr., Kiwanian of Benton.

Natural gas deposits in the United States were reported as early as 1626.

RECEIVING TRAINING

Cadet Olan W. Reeves Jr., 20, Hope, is receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps advanced summer camp at Ft. Riley, Kan. from June 10-July 21.

Reeves, a student at Ouachita Baptist University, Arkadelphia, is one of more than 10,000 students attending Army ROTC Training at six installations in the U.S.

Cadet Reeves is a 1969 graduate of Hope High School.

Backing into VN 'talks'

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States heads back into the Vietnam peace talks Thursday amid only modest predictions here about prospects for a settlement any time soon.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, due in late today from a round-the-world trip, said before leaving Rome that he is generally hopeful the reopening Paris parley might bring some movement by a Hanoi negotiator toward ending the war.

Assistant Secretary Marshall Green, the State Department's top Far East expert, returned from an East Asian tour affirming that the United States will work hard for a settlement. "But I think we are dealing, quite realistically," Green said, "with pretty hard-bitten, intransigent, struggle-minded leaders in Hanoi."

President Nixon's security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, told newsmen over the weekend that "at least we have some reason to believe that maybe there will be a new approach" by North Vietnam.

"But we cannot guarantee it," he said, "because it will not be certain until we have heard it from them."

Washington analysts have spotted no particular shift in North Vietnam's position in the public remarks of Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy upon his arrival in Paris Monday.

They say Hanoi's terms would mean, in effect, a Communist takeover of South Vietnam.

However, Le Duc Tho, the Hanoi Politburo member who has met secretly with Kissinger in the past, is reported on his way to Paris and what he says privately may—or may not—diverge from their public stance.

Nixon announced June 29th that he was resuming the long-stalemate Paris meetings, suspended May 4, "on the assumption that the North Vietnamese are prepared to negotiate in a constructive and serious way."

Administration spokesmen have yet to disclose what evidence they may have that Hanoi intends to alter her position. They add the United States will not drop its refusal of North Vietnam's central demand for a coalition government in Saigon.

The administration's main stated reasons for some optimism is because of North Vietnam's circumstances now. Rogers noted that Hanoi's spring offensive has failed, U.S. bombing of the North is highly successful, Nixon's Moscow and Peking trips have strengthened the world climate for peace, and continuing the war serves nobody's interests.

Guy Bayse is Lion speaker

Guy Bayse spoke to the Hope Lions Monday during the weekly luncheon on the history and present activities of one of Hope's oldest and largest industries, the Bruner-Ivory Handle Co.

The company (Bruner) originated in Heber Springs, Arkansas in about 1880 where handles were split from logs and shaved with a drawknife. This method was slow and costly and to Bayse's knowledge is no longer used commercially.

The Ivory Handle Co. originated in Hope in 1901 and derived its name from the color and quality of local hickory. In 1933 the Bruner Handle Co. bought the Ivory Handle Co. Several years ago the Carl Bruner family sold its interest to the E. B. Link Handle Co. The company name was retained.

Hickory is native only to America and for this reason the company has had much experience in exporting handles to other parts of the world. This is true of striking tools such as axes and hammers. Ash is used for rake, hoe, and shovel handles.

Past District Gov. Wilson Hansford was a visitor and delivered a certificate to the local club for having raised $20 per member for sight conservation work.

Lion Arthur Wimmell of Hot Springs, a former member of the Hope club, was the guest of Lion Elmer Wagner of McCaskill.

Lion Dennis Butler brought Bob Tye who was installed as a new member.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — To the cabbies and bellhops, there's no question about it — Democrats just don't spread around the cash that Republicans do.

"Just between you and me, lady. Republicans are much bigger spenders," cabbie William Previs said recently to a questioner. "You know, some have it and some don't."

Two veteran bellhops at the Fontainebleau Hotel, Democratic headquarters, agree.

Democrats aren't "high-rollers," they said, but they're not the worst tipplers.

"Doctors are the worst tipplers and teachers are second," one said.

Convention hoopla is considered passe

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "We're eating hot dogs this year, not filet mignon," says Liz Carpenter, summing up the doldrums of the social circuit at the Democratic National Convention.

"It's a different spread," added Mrs. Carpenter, a White House aide in the Johnson administration and always a favored guest on the Washington social circuit. It appears that the hoopla and parties which sparked past Democratic conventions are passe this year.

Some Democrats speculate this is caused by the style of the convention — the new breed of delegates whose tastes run more to dungarees and peanut butter than to cocktails and caviar. Others figure the question is purely financial — another manifestation of the party's $9.3-million debt.

"I looked for invitations and you know, there weren't any," said Mary Hoyt, press secretary for Mrs. George McGovern. "And if there were, what would people think? That we're down here to party?"

Mrs. Terry Sanford, wife of the former North Carolina governor seeking the Democratic presidential nomination, said her social calendar isn't as full as she'd expected. "I thought maybe I wasn't being invited to the parties, but it seems there aren't many," she said. "Other years we've received lots of invitations to receptions and teas and things, but this year there doesn't seem to be much going on."

The fat-cats are here all right. Sometimes they can be seen cabana-hopping along the stretch of hotel beaches, but few are throwing extravagant black-tie parties.

In a convention week usually studded with fashion shows, teas and staid "ladies' functions," there was only one fashion show. Tickets went for a record low $3. And some went begging.

"These things used to be command performances," said

Mrs. Gilbert Hahn of Washington, who did attend. "But now they're absolutely passe. It's delicious that this aspect is over. Four years ago this kind of thing would have been packed every day. Now who cares?"

Hotel beauty parlors say business isn't as usual, that the increase in women delegates hasn't helped their business one bit. Slacks, halters and sandals are in, as acceptable on the convention platform as they are on the beach. Waxen, coiffed hair-dos are out.

"I don't know what you call it, but I call it grim," said a Washington social writer who came to the convention to describe the party scene. "If it keeps up like this, I could go out of business."

Sen. Harris gets 'muscle' from state

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, rebuffed by his home state delegation, borrowed some muscle from Mississippi early Wednesday and won the right to address the Democratic National Convention in support of the tax-reform platform plank.

His effort was in vain. The minority report favored by Harris was defeated on a close voice vote that left one of its co-sponsors declaring that the chair did not hear correctly.

Harris charged in his brief speech that the average taxpayer pays too much in taxes because "a lot of rich people aren't paying any taxes."

The majority report on tax reform, he said, proposed a study only. "We've studied tax reform to death," he declared. "The Democratic party ought to lead a taxpayers' revolt in 1972."

Harris said the minority plank would give Sen. George McGovern, the man everybody expects to get the presidential nomination, a plank he could win with.

Apparently, the McGovern forces didn't agree. They are firmly in control of the convention and could have adopted or rejected any minority report they liked.

Harris sent a representative before the Oklahoma caucus Tuesday morning asking Cecil Drummond of Pawhuska, Oklahoma's representative on the Platform Committee, to step down temporarily so Harris could be appointed to the post. This would make him eligible to speak on the tax-reform plank, the delegation was told, and he could not get eligible any other way.

The request was made by delegate Hannah Atkins of Oklahoma City. Harris is not a delegate, but this would not keep him from being named to the Platform Committee.

Drummond declined to step aside and, when a floor fight threatened to break up the caucus, Gov. David Hall, delegation chairman, called a recess. He said the matter would be decided by delegates after they assembled in convention hall Tuesday night.

Hall said Harris dropped his request after a preliminary poll indicated the delegates would vote heavily against forcing Drummond to step aside.

After Harris spoke, Hall told newsmen he thought Harris had worked through the Mississippi delegation to get eligible.

Mississippi delegate Wesley Watkins said he had arranged for McGovern to speak. He said the chair first had indicated that Harris would be ruled ineligible but later decided he was. Convention officials said they understood that Harris had been made an alternate delegate by the Oklahoma delegation.

Watkins said he had threatened to appeal the chair's ruling if it went against Harris.

Watkins was a co-sponsor of the minority report. Asked why he wanted Harris as a speaker for his proposal, he said: "He's one of the proponents of the new populism which is sweeping the country and which will sweep McGovern into office this fall."

Watkins said he thought that the chairman, Yvonne Breathwaite Burke, should have permitted a roll call vote on the minority report. She had to call for two voice votes before she decided that the "noes" had it.

"I think we had it won," Watkins said.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Al Sobel was a tournament director by profession and in his prime he was the greatest. He was not a good bridge player, but he loved to play the game and on occasion he rose to peaks of brilliancy.

Today's hand was set up for Al in a midnight game after the conclusion of a tournament. The other players at the table didn't know that Al was looking at 12 top spades, but almost everyone else at the post-tournament party was watching to see what would happen.

They saw Al at his best. He looked at his 12 spades and passed without blinking an eye. He passed twice more and finally came to life by doubling six hearts. West couldn't wait to redouble. If he hadn't, East would have.

In late-night games after tournaments, all slam contracts are redoubled. North didn't like the redouble, but knew better than to take the sure loss at seven clubs. Anyway, Al just might have the heart contract set some way or other.

When Al ran to six spades, West hopped on it with a roar. Al thought of redoubling, but decided that six doubled would be good enough.

He ruffed the heart lead and led his four of trumps. West followed with his three-spot and, when East showed out, you could have heard the roar from players and kibitzers alike in the next county, if not the next state. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Record fish don't stay long on state books

By CHARLES BURTON
Arkansas Game and Fish Commission

Either Arkansas fish are getting bigger or Arkansas fishermen are getting better. In either case it only means that record fish do not stay on the books very long.

Jay Kaffka, Game and Fish Commission magazine editor and keeper-of-the-records, said, "At the rate new records are being reported I'm going to start listing the weights in pencil."

Within the last month three new records have been established. The largest of these was a monster brown trout weighing in at 31-lbs. 8-oz. This lunker, which measured 35½ inches long and had a 26 inch girth, was taken from the White River near Bull Shoals Dam by Troy Lackey of Lakeview.

The bait was a live crawfish. Fishery biologists Robert Baker and John Hogue and Wildlife Officer Bill Keeter weighed the fish.

The northern pike record was also felled again, and again the fish to do it came from DeGray Reservoir. Bennie Fife of El Dorado used a Little George to take a 12-lb. 2-oz. northern and set a new state record. The fish measured 31½ inches long and was taken on 6-lb. test line. The weigh-in was witnessed by wildlife officers Elmer Kirksey and Jack Spardlin.

The third fish provided a new listing for the commission record books. Under a new policy to keep records for rough fish taken on sport tackle, Lonnie Barclay of Little Rock has listed a 17-pound paddlefish or spoonbill cat.

Barclay took his trophy from the Arkansas River near Burns Park using a plastic worm. The weight was verified by commission news editor Charles Burton.

To qualify for state-record status a fish must be caught on hand-held tackle, that is, pole-and-line, rod-and-lure, or by snagging. According to Kaffka snagged fish are considered for state records because the fisherman must hook the fish, play it, and bring it to hand. Trotline, limblime and net catches are not considered because the fish essentially catches itself. The other stipulation for having a fish listed as a state record is having the weight verified by an employee of the Commission before the fish is altered in any way.

WILDLIFE RESTORATION
Distribution of $24,300,000 in federal aid funds to the states for wildlife restoration and hunter safety programs has been announced by Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton.

Of the total, $22,100,000 was distributed according to a formula based on hunting license holders and the area of each State, and may be used on approved state wildlife projects which include acquisition of land suitable for habitat, development and manipulation of habitat, and research to aid in managing game species. The remaining $2,200,000 was distributed on the basis of State population and may be used for hunter safety programs. The States, however may use the total amount distributed for wildlife restoration projects. Funds come from the 11 percent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition and the 10 percent excise tax on pistols and revolvers. The monies are deposited into a special fund created by the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act of 1937 (Pittman-Robertson) and amended in 1970 to include the tax on pistols and revolvers. The distribution program is administered by the Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service. Out of this appropriation Arkansas will receive $377,040 for Wildlife restoration and $22,000 for hunter safety, making a total of $399,040.

Connally will campaign for Richard Nixon

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, back home after a 17-nation mission for President Nixon, says he may campaign actively for the chief executive's re-election this fall but expects no offer to be Nixon's running mate.

He also said he has no idea what new assignment Nixon may have in mind for him, although the President mentioned recently that Connally may take on some other special duties.

Connally told newsmen that he's made no decision on his campaign role, but said he doesn't consider Democratic Sen. George McGovern the most attractive presidential candidate and sides with Nixon on most major issues.

"I think it would be a mistake to assume that I'll sit this one out," said Connally, who resigned in May as Treasury secretary amid speculation that Nixon might choose him to replace Spiro T. Agnew on the GOP ticket in November.

"It's conceivable that I could be fairly active" for Nixon, he said, but he turned aside questions suggesting that the President sent him on the five-week worldwide trip to groom him for vice president.

"I would anticipate that I wouldn't" be offered the post, he said. "As I read the tea leaves, that's not in my future." Besides, he said, reporters should ask Nixon that question.

Connally said he is still a Democrat. But, asked if he missed attending the Democratic National Convention at Miami Beach, he said, "I miss it, kind of like a man misses a sore thumb."

As for McGovern, he said, "in light of some of his policies, he's not the most attractive candidate in the country, as far as I can see."

Connally, former Texas governor who has been active in several Democratic national conventions, said he will talk to Nixon later this week at the Western White House before making a public report on his trip. But that's not all that will be discussed, he said.

"I think it would be unthinkable that the President and I got together and didn't talk a little domestic politics," he said. Connally added, though, that he has no plan to attend the Republican National Convention next month at Miami Beach.
